And Early Support Of a Child's Development

THE CONFERENCE IDEA

The conference is a continuation of scientific meetings at The Maria Grzegorzewska University within the cycle „PERSON” that were held in 2003. Its aim is the multi-aspect discussion and the experience exchange within the process of knowing the disability. During this conference in 2016 there will be discussed the problem of early intervention and early support for the development of a child with different disorders.

The early support of development is a complicated process, involving all activities whose aim is to help a child in its development as well as strengthening the family competence. Such activities should take place in a child's natural environment within the individual program carried out by a team of specialists. Early intervention of a child requires complex solutions, but its effects depend on various factors. This complexity and multi-aspects of early intervention as well as its importance for the development of a child with different disabilities emphasize the value of the undertaken discussion.

During the conference we suggest to conduct the discussions on the following thematic blocks concentrating on the process of early intervention and early support for the child's development:

- 1/ medical conditions,
- 2/social , legal and economic contexts,
- 3/ family engagement,
- 4/the diagnosis of a child's and family needs and possibilities,
- 5/ the methods of a development support,
- 6/ professionals' preparation.

The above given subject categories are only reference points. The final program will be described basing on the sent proposal of speeches by people declaring their participation in the conference.

THE PARTICIPANTS

The representatives of academics, practical professionals as well as those representing the organizations dealing with the support of a child's development and family support are all invited to participate in the conference.
